MCKINLEY TO TAKE A REST.

Goes This Week to a Little Religious Community to Recuperate from Fatigue of the Campaign.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 6.—Major McKinley shook hands with more than 5,000 citizens of Pennsylvania yesterday, and is somewhat fatigued to-day, and more determined than ever to go to Zoar for a few days' rest this week. He has been working very hard since his nomination, and from the latter part of this week up to the very day of the election he expects to be occupied all the while and have no time for recreation.

Zoar is a quiet and quaint religious community, where the people own the property in common and are a law unto themselves. There is a pleasant, beautifully situated, small hotel there, which will be placed at the disposal of Major McKinley. The drive to Zoar is a pleasant one, and is little less than twenty miles. Major McKinley said to-day that he would drive to Zoar. Mrs. McKinley will go with him, and probably Captain and Mrs. Helms, Captain Helms is an officer in the regular army who is devoted to Major McKinley and who, at the latter's request, is acting as his confidential secretary during his leave of absence. Major McKinley does not expect to remain longer than two or three days in Zoar, as he has to receive some delegations the latter part of this week.

Political Sermon Broken by Cries of "It's Not True!" "I'll Vote for Bryan!" Etc.

Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., preached a sensational sermon at the Academy of Music yesterday morning on "The Political Crisis." He said many unkind things of William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic party and the free silver movement. In doing so he managed to stir up a hornet's nest and create a scene in which cheers and hisses were about equally mingled.

Professor Edwin V. Wright, who founded the Anti-Monopoly League and the Bimetallic Association, was in the audience. He has just returned from a stumping tour for silver with George Fred Williams through New England. He listened quietly to Mr. Dixon's exhortation until the preacher asserted that the Republican party stood for all that was good and pure, while the Democratic party was the champion of all that was the absolute reverse. Then Professor Wright jumped to his feet, shook his fist at the pastor and exclaimed:

The Denial Direct.
"What you say is false—absolutely false. You don't know what you're talking about." All were dismayed for a moment and then a shout of applause arose, followed by a storm of hisses.

The Rev. Mr. Dixon hadn't expected all this and it took him several minutes to discover his own location. Then he proceeded calmly with his dissertation. He complimented the Populists and said the People's party had been much maligned.

"The Democratic party was in hell," said he, "when it pulled itself together by tying to the Populists in the Chicago Convention. Don't you believe that all Populists are ignorant. The leaders of the party are men of brains and of education. And they are fine-looking men, too. Many of them are handsomer even than Theodore Roosevelt." This, of course, scored a laugh, and Mr. Dixon continued:

"In such a crisis as now confronts us, it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to vote the straight Republican ticket. I voted for Mr. Cleveland, and now before God I acknowledge my sin."

"I'll Vote for Bryan," some one shouted, "and"

"Here, too!" came from another.

However, Mr. Dixon was not taking a straw vote, so he paid no attention to the interruptions.

"The proposition of Mr. Bryan and his party," said he, "to pay off the bonds of the United States, on which 100 cents on the dollar were raised, in coin worth only 55 cents on the dollar, is downright ras-

Professor Wright, "in the highest esteem, but his talk yesterday was irrational and inhuman. The only explanation, to my mind, is that he has been Hanned."

Mr. Madden Explains.
James T. Madden is a lawyer, with offices at No. 76 Montgomery street, Jersey City, and was at one time a practicing physician.

"I did not go to the service with any idea of creating a scene," said he, "I had read that Mr. Dixon was to speak on the financial question, and I decided to go. Two friends of mine who live in Jersey City went with me."

"I am a believer in silver, but I want to hear what its opponents have to say." "At first Dr. Dixon's arguments were much what I had expected. He went through the usual list. But after a little he became so bitter and so it seemed to me, so prejudiced and illogical, that I became greatly excited, and when he said that if Bryan were elected every man would get only 55 cents for every $1 due him, I jumped up and shouted:

"It's not true."

"Of course, there was a great deal of excitement. There was a good deal of applause, too. Dr. Dixon stopped speaking and after a moment's hesitation said that if I would send him my card he would give me any satisfaction I might want."

"Walking up to the platform I handed him my card and told him that I had made a careful study of the question and challenged him to a public debate at any time and place he might select. He made no reply and I left the place. Fully 150 people

The Fated Craft That Tempted the Wrath of the Atlantic.

In a 20-foot sailboat, the Sozodent, carrying a mainsail and two jibs, the Charlsen brothers, Norwegians, left this port June 21 to cross the ocean to Europe and return. followed me. Among them I noticed Attorney-General Stratton, of New Jersey. "I hope Mr. Dixon will meet me in debate. I have always been a Republican and have never voted for the Democratic ticket, but I shall vote for Bryan."

LETTER THAT WAS OPENED.

Democratic Congressional Committee Gives Out the Full Text.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The Democratic Congressional Committee has given out the full text of the letter which was addressed to them, but delivered to the Republican Congressional Committee, and by the latter opened and shown to a visitor. It is as follows:

"Shawneetown, Ill., Aug. 24, 1896.
"Secretary Congressional Committee,
"Washington, D. C.

"Sir: Can you send me some speeches, Cockrell's and Teller's preferred? We simply can't get literature except what we have bought from private sources, and as every man in the country from whom we have heretofore derived our funds is now a gold Democrat, or rather, a McKinley Republican, we are not able to buy much literature."

"In the country we have lost about twenty Democrats and have gained about a hundred Republicans, and all the Populists, some two hundred and fifty of them. The Republican, however, are simply flooding the country with their staff. Yours truly,
"JNO. MARELLIGOT.

FEW BOLDERS IN DELAWARE.

Democratic Bolders Are Almost Solid for the Regular Ticket.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 6.—The movement in favor of a third ticket upon a single gold standard platform in the State of Delaware is a failure. The friends of Bryan and Sewall and free silver in the State have made a careful canvass of the counties to ascertain the feeling against the Chicago nominees and the platform of the National Convention.

In New Castle County the canvass shows that there are only 200 out of 11,000 opposed to free silver and Bryan and Sewall. In Kent County, out of 4,000 Democratic voters there are only 15 opposed to the Chicago ticket and in Sussex County the canvass shows that out of 4,500 Democrats there are only 9 who favor a single gold standard.

The total number of voters conceded to the gold Democrats in Delaware is about 230, with a possibility of this number being greatly reduced before the campaign gets much older.

SNAKE ON LIBERTY ISLAND.

Trooper Foley Finds One, and the Ticket
Chopper Tries to Capture It, but Fails.

A garter snake visited Liberty Island last Friday. Where it came from no one knows. It was discovered on the dock by Soldier William Foley, of the Government troops, who was on duty at the time.

His snakehood was not a very formidable looking object, and Foley, not feeling at liberty to destroy it, notified James Reithel, the ticket chopper. The snake was so harmless that Reithel was able to capture it in the folds of an old coat. While he was not watching the reptile escaped through one of the sleeves of the coat, and since the snake had not been found, it is believed that it wriggled into the water and was drowned.

Evidence That They Clung to the Boat When
It Was Capsized Three Hundred and Fifty Miles Off the Irish Coast.

Life Belts Cut.

Two more venturesome seadogs have come to grief in an effort to beat the record of hazardous sailing across the treacherous Atlantic. Their boat, the Sozodent, a twenty-foot craft with a small mainsail and two small jibs, was sighted about two weeks ago rocking in the waves, bottom up, in latitude 50 N., longitude 15 W., about 350 miles off the Irish coast, and it is simply a guess as to whether the two men who were aboard of her were picked up by a passing vessel or were drowned.

The daring sailors were Captain Frank Charlsen, formerly a mate on John Jacob Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal, and his brother, John. They were Norwegians by birth, but became American citizens a few years ago.

They hailed from Nyack when they sailed away in the little craft that few men would care to board for a voyage to the mouth of the Shrewsbury River.

The Sozodent was just twenty feet over all, with six feet eight inches beam, and drew twenty-six inches of water. She was double-jointed and supplied with an air chamber at either end, supposed to make her un-sinkable.

She had a heavy lead keel, devised to keep her right side up in any kind of weather, and for propelling power she had two pairs of oars and carried a small mainsail, jib and flying jib.

The Charlsens left this port in their little craft on Sunday, June 21, announcing that they would make Queenstown as the first port, and that then the course would be to Isle of Wight, Southampton, London, Hamburg, Bremen, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Christiania, then Glasgow, New York, and back to New York, where the Charlsens expected to arrive and be greeted as heroes in the Summer of 1897.

The occasion of their departure was a holiday for the Norwegians of this city. All of these hardy Northerners knew of the Charlsens and their records as brave seamen, and they turned out in 1,500 strong on the Sunday afternoon they started cheer them for their courage. The little boat left the Battery at 5 o'clock in the evening and was towed to Sandy Hook by the tug Fred B. Dalzell with 100 Norwegians aboard.

The Sozodent left Sandy Hook at 7 o'clock on the evening of June 21, and was watched by those aboard the Dalzell till she slowly sailed out of sight. The next board of her was on June 23, when word was received that she had been spoken on July 19, 844 miles from Pastnet, by the steamship Indiana. Nothing more was heard till Captain Olsen reported sighting the capsized craft.

His report has just been received by the Department of State from Consul James F. Neal, stationed at Liverpool. From the position of the craft the captain said he could not tell whether those aboard of her had been lost or picked up by some other vessel.

The men, Captain Olsen stated, had apparently clung to the boat after she capsized, as the deck had been cut and broken on the port side in order, it would seem, to get at provisions.

The life belts were hanging on the port side, and had the appearance of being cut, which gave Captain Olsen the impression that the venturesome sailors had been saved.

BABOON THAT PLAYS BALL.

"Jake" Cook, the Monkey Keeper at Central Park, Taught "Jack" the Trick with an Apple.

"Jake" Cook, the monkey keeper in the Central Park menagerie, has been training the menagerie's wisest looking baboon, which has been in the monkey quarters about five years.

About a month ago Cook got into "Jack's" cage, and began to toss an apple against the wall. The baboon watched the keeper with interest for some time and when the apple was given to him tried the trick himself. One awkward throw was enough to satisfy his curiosity, and he then proceeded to play with the apple.

"Jake" saw in the baboon's selfishness a way to compel him to play ball, and took the apple away from him.

The baboon showed fight, but "Jake" brought him to terms with a small stick. He then proceeded with the lesson, and only after the baboon had thrown the apple up against the side of the cage several times was it given to him to eat.

The baboon has improved with each lesson, and can throw a ball against the wall and catch it expertly on the "bounce."

HOUSES UNROOFED BY WIND.

Two in West Seventeenth Street Robbed of Their Covering—Walls Will Be Torn Down.

The big storm Saturday unroofed the buildings at Nos. 527 and 531 West Seventeenth street, occupied as a carpenter shop. The walls were weakened, and are liable to fall.

Captain Walsh, of the West Twentieth Street Station, notified the Building Department, and detailed two policemen to the premises to watch against the falling of the building. Inspectors were there yesterday and found a frame extension to the building, used as a stable and occupied by fourteen horses, in an unsafe condition. It will be taken down.

Fire Invades Yale Commons.

New Haven, Sept. 6.—Yale Commons mysteriously took fire at an early hour this morning, and but for the prompt action of the fire department, would have burned to the ground. The damage was confined to the basement. A large quantity of supplies was destroyed.

Senator Foley Improving.

Saratoga, Sept. 6.—Ex-Senate Senator John Foley passed a comparatively easy day. He appears to be improving, but is still seriously ill.

A GREAT BOOK FREE.

If you will send 21 cents in stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., you will receive, post-paid, a copy of Dr. Pierce's "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is a handsome book of 1008 pages, with over 300 illustrations and colored plates, and a greater amount of exact information about the human body in health and disease than was ever before contained in a single volume. It is a complete medical library in itself, and it has had a greater sale at $1.50 a copy than any other medical book in the English language. Six hundred and eighty thousand copies have been sold, and now an edition of half a million is being distributed absolutely free. The free edition is in strong paper covers. If French cloth, embossed and beautifully stamped covers are desired, to cents extra, 31 cents in all, should be sent to pay the extra cost of this handsome binding.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for the permanent cure of constipation and all its attendant ills. Sour stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, flatulence, heart-burn, headache, bad breath, nervous prostration, pimples, blotches and eruptive skin diseases are directly traceable to this seemingly insignificant cause. If you have any of these symptoms, you will find prompt and permanent relief in Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative but two or three a day will keep the bowels in better order than a lead pencil. Contains about forty "Pellets" and cost twenty-five cents. There is nothing "purer" as to the ingredients than this little book. If the druggists try to sell you something else, be very sure it is because they make a bigger profit on "something else."
